

Are You Interested in Teaching English?

WAKE FOREST UNIVERSITY

Department of Education

Attention Juniors:

It's not too late...
Start in the spring;
finish in 4 years!

Contact:

Dr. Alan Brown

Program Coordinator,
English Education

B202 Tribble Hall

brownma@wfu.edu

336-758-5460

www.wfu.edu/education/

Undergraduate English majors can earn a North Carolina license to teach secondary English in grades 9-12.

Students will have an opportunity to participate in a wide range of classroom experiences through a minor in English education. English majors, minors, or graduate students who are considering teaching at any level would benefit from specific courses in the Department of Education, such as EDU 354/654 English Methods; EDU 231: Adolescent Literature; and EDU 377/677 Literacy in the 21st Century. Students from any content area with an interest in teaching may also consider our Schools, Education, and Society minor or one of our graduate programs.